WORKFORCE INVESTMENT BOARD FACT SHEET

Why Workforce Investment Boards?

Workforce Investment Boards (WIBs), under a variety of names, began replacing traditional Private Industry Councils (PICs) across the nation as early as 1990, and the pace picked up substantially in 1996 and 1997. Federal legislation has authorized their existence according to the Workforce Investment Act. This governing body began operation with the PICs being deleted as of July 2000.

The Workforce Investment Boards provide strategic leadership for a wide range of employment and training programs. Their mission is to develop the skills of the entire workforce of their local communities and to ensure a smooth functioning of the local economy.

The Merced County Workforce Investment Board is appointed by the Merced County Board of Supervisors and share policy oversight. The WIB defines broad goals for all workforce programs in its system. It collects information on the specific needs of the local economy and its business community. The Workforce Investment Board creates a plan to address the economic problems of its labor market area and establishes a few specific short-term goals – “strategic issues” – that close the gap between present capabilities and the Board’s ideal vision.

The Workforce Investment Board shall develop and apply “systemic” performance criteria in keeping with its overall strategic plan and seek feedback from customers. It monitors and evaluates programs based on these criteria and insists that programs operate under the principles of quality management and continuous improvement.

Functions of the Local Workforce Investment Board

Develop and submit a local plan to the Governor, in partnership with the chief elected official. The local Board is responsible for the development of a local strategic workforce investment plan.

The Workforce Investment Board will identify eligible providers of youth activities in the local area by awarding grants or contracts on a competitive basis, based on recommendations of the Youth Council; and identify eligible providers of training services for adults and dislocated workers.

Develop a budget for purposes of carrying out the duties of the local Boards subject to the approval of the chief elected official.

In partnership with the chief elected official, conduct oversight with respect to local programs of youth activities and local employment and training activities for adults and the one-stop delivery system in the local workforce area.

Negotiate and reach agreement on local performance measures with the chief elected official and the Governor.
