

When WIA Works—We Work

WIA Reauthorization is the Fastest Way to Put Americans to Work

Thousands of employers, from light manufacturers to health care facilities, depend on the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) to re-train displaced workers for jobs that are available in their communities.

The House and Senate leadership can take action today to put more Americans back to work by appointing conferees to the WIA Reauthorization Conference.

More jobs is one thing we can all agree on, and quick reauthorization and full funding of WIA will help employers invest in training to keep jobs here, at home.

WIA Reauthorization—Our Jobs Are Counting On It.

We Welcome 2,000 Workforce Investment Board (WIB) members and business leaders to our annual NAWB conference in Washington, DC.
